

University of Wisconsin-Madison, Madison, WI
O1 - Development Economics
Section I. U.S. Academic Full-Time, Tenured & Tenure Track

The Department of Agricultural and Applied Economics at the University of Wisconsin-Madison (<http://www.aae.wisc.edu>) invites applications for a tenured (or tenure-track) faculty position at any level in the area of economic development. The successful applicant will join a development economics group with a vibrant program of research and graduate advising on a campus with broad and deep international expertise in the social sciences. The teaching load is two courses per year. The appointment starts in September of 2009. Applications should be sent to Brad Barham, Chair, AAE, 433 Taylor Hall, University of Wisconsin, Madison, WI 53706. Beginning applicants (new Ph.D.) should send curriculum vitae, 1-2 samples of writing, and the names of three references. Applicants currently in academic positions should send curriculum vitae, four publications, and the names of three references. Most favorable consideration will be given to applications received before December 1, 2008.

UW-Madison is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer.

PVL#: 60156